

Army Kids Are "Tree"mendous!

Many trees grow easily from seed. All you have to do is collect the seeds in the proper season, either in late spring or early fall (depending on the species). Seeds should be planted 2 inches deep in ½ gallon containers filled with rich soil. Water the soil so that it is moist but not soaked.

You may want to take your planting project a step further by growing trees in pots and selling them door-to-door, complete with planting and staking services. Then reinvest the money to expand your operation to other plants (we like trees best). This would be comparable to cutting lawns or selling lemonade, but it's more unique.

Grow a Tree From a Seed

